

How to Copy a Handwritten Postcard onto a Stack of Blank Postcards Using a Printer/Copier

Lynn Geisler
Jim Howard
David Pinkowitz

First, the candidate's message is handwritten onto a blank postcard using a thin-tip black marker or dark pen, omitting the recipient's name and leaving a quarter-inch margin on all sides.

Dear

Unless we vote NO on the recall, a Trump Republican will be governor!
You should have received your mail in ballot. Please vote NO, sign and date the return envelope, add your address below your signature and return your ballot ASAP. No postage needed.

Thanks

Lynn (volunteer)

Then, the glass on the copier is cleaned and the original postcard is placed on the glass in the upper left-hand corner (your copier may require a different location).

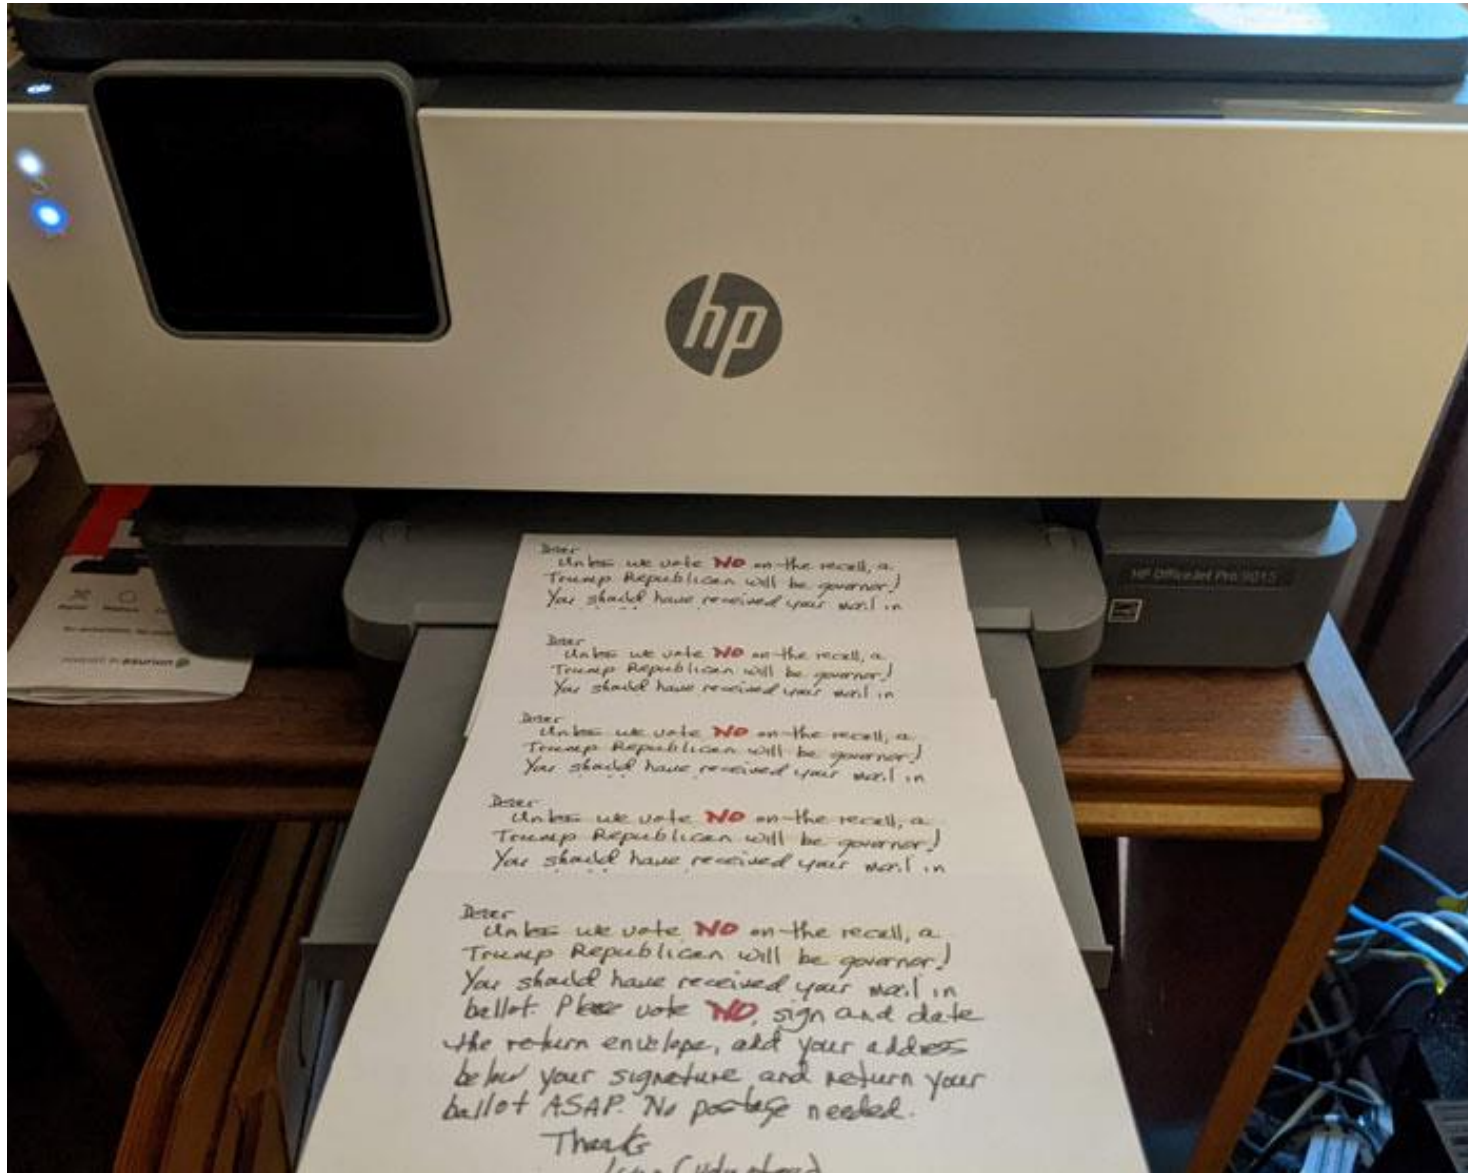

Next, the blank postcards are loaded into the copier paper tray and the copier is set for the correct paper size.

The printer/copier setup is now complete.
The copier will make as many copies of the original handwritten postcard as required.

Next, the recipient's mailing address is added to the copied postcard by hand writing, label or mail merge. Then the recipient's name is handwritten on the message side of the postcard using the same pen as used for the message.
